PRESIDENT'S REPORT 1981—1982

Academic Program

A review of the year's academic work might give one the impression of little change, but a closer inspection reveals several marked accomplishments during a very busy year. Although our self study for the Middle States Association did not emphasize the academic program, the program and the library were given attention by the visiting team, and the notification of continued accreditation was received.

Among the new accomplishments to influence and strengthen our academic program was the establishment of a transfer program in health sciences with Thomas Jefferson University. This new relationship with Thomas Jefferson University provides opportunities for our students to prepare for a variety of health professions while being assured of preparation which meets the rapidly changing standards and needs of our time.

Another new affiliation will provide increased academic benefits to our students. Dean Reed was informed of our being selected to be part of the International Student Exchange Program. This program allows for Lebanon Valley students to have a year of study at overseas colleges or universities while students from the overseas institutions study at Lebanon Valley. This arrangement will add strength to our program and make the program much more cost effective.

Careful and continuous review of all our academic programs forces us to change when necessary at the same time we hold to our basic purpose and our academic integrity. After many years of experience with our program leading to the B.A. in music both the faculty and the Board of Trustees approved the Bachelor of Music degree to replace the B.A. in music. This change is in accordance with the high quality of work accomplished within the department. Another academic change which is still under study and review is in the area of general education which answers the desires and problems of every campus; the importance of the program gives reason for continuous study so that we make the Lebanon Valley College experience as strong as possible.

The Board of Trustees granted permanent tenure to Dr. Robert Clay, Dr. Owen Moe and Richard Stone while making the following promotions: to Professor — Dr. Donald Byrne, Dr. Robert Lau; to Associate Professor — Ronald Burrichter, Dr. Diane Iglesias, Dr. Susan Verhoeck, Dr. Stephen Williams; to Assistant Professor — Horace Tousey, Philip Witmer. Professor Tousey was named to chair the Department of Mathematical Sciences and Professor Stone was named to chair the Department of Business Administration. In the middle of the year Dr. Michael Grella was named to chair the Department of Education.

Two long-time faculty members announced their retirements. Both Dr. Cloyd Ebersole and Dr. Alex Fehr were granted Professor Emeritus status.

Dr. Ebersole joined the faculty in 1953 and Dr. Fehr joined the faculty in 1951.

It is indeed a challenge to retain the traditional Lebanon Valley College low student to faculty ratio, small classes, personal attention, and rigorous program while at the same time live within the budget limitations. This greatest of challenges will probably always be with us.

Student Services

Since we completed our first year of experience with a full-time Director of Career Planning and Placement, this report of activities under student services must emphasize the success of this new program. In just one year a great leap forward was accomplished. A variety of services became available and campus recognition was high.

In the placement function, activity was at its highest level ever. A total of 1606 vacancy notices were sent to seniors and alumni and 438 credential packets were sent to prospective employers and graduate schools. More than 40 interviewers visited campus. Despite the recession this number is the highest of the last four years. Students, faculty, administration, staff and alumni have become keenly aware of the activities within the Office of Career Planning and Placement.

In our self study, two areas related to student services received a major share of attention. One area was outcomes and placement. The other area was recruitment and retention. Many recommendations came from these studies. Some have already been implemented. Some are under review for a wide look at the total picture. Some are under study to determine if changes in policy are desirable. The quality of social life, which has different meanings for different people, appeared to be the main target for improvement by the many people sharing and reviewing the studies.

The athletic programs received careful review and two numbers told us something about the interests of our students. During the year a cumulative total of 196 males participated in intercollegiate athletics. Only 54 females participated. Efforts to provide expanded opportunities for females and efforts to encourage their participation must increase. There is a similar difference between the sexes in the participation rates within the intramural programs.

The area of student services will be meeting old and new problems as the College greets the students and challenges of the 1980s. From close observation one discovers that today's student must still learn how to cope with loneliness, roommate problems, choosing a career, working through value conflicts, choosing to use or not use drugs and/or alcohol, academic failure or at least academic set-backs, and all sorts of sex-related problems.

The Dean of Students and his staff continued to meet a variety of students and problems despite the small size of our College. The 1981-1982 academic year began with 829 full-time and 93 part-time students in the day program. There were 135, 172 and 123 in the evening school, weekend college and University Center respectively.

Activities from the Chapel

During the 1981-1982 year the chapel-convocation program brought a wide array of enriching experiences to our campus. Fred Hechinger, Malcolm Toon, Bruce Metzger, Myron Augsburg and Austin Lovelace are just a few of the nationally known persons who shared time and thoughts with us. The big problem of getting well-deserved attendance for all of the programs remained a source of frustration.

Appointment of a Chaplain's Advisory Committee on Religious Life introduced new dimensions to the dialogue about religious life on campus. A committee with approximately proportional representation of denominational traditions on campus was itself a broadening example, and the sometime spirited discussions were themselves instructive about religious diversity among the students. The committee has been truly helpful in creating a new willingness to plan imaginatively for the future and a new openness to listening to different points of view.

The Chaplain continued to serve as advisor to the international community on campus. Many unusual problems arose from students who hail from troubled spots on our globe. Despite the increased problems of financial aid and national policies, efforts to have an international community on campus must continue. The presence of Liberians, Iranians, Asian and African Kenyans and Ugandans, Europeans, Cubans, Chinese, Southeast Asians, Jordanians and Lebanese and their problems makes us all aware of the conflicts and tragedies as well as the human potentials of this world.

Finances

Much of the financial achievement of the year is told in the later pages of this report. One special mark to be noted here, however, is the completion of the year with black ink. In this period of some unusual constraints, black ink is cause for celebration. Our operations showed approximately $25,000 of revenue in excess of expenditures.

For all of our financial successes of the year — black ink, Annual Giving, Fund for Fulfillment - Phase II — I express thanks to many, many people. It is impossible to name all who cooperated in controlling expenditures, soliciting dollars, paying their fees, and giving their financial support.

One of the boldest financial decisions came in November when the Board of Trustees acted to retain student charges at their current levels. This action held the total 1981-1982 charge of $6,975 at the same level for 1982-1983. After twelve consecutive years of increases, it was a pleasure to announce the action to hold the line. I know of few actions

OTHER GIVING OPPORTUNITIES

DEFERRED GIVING AND REQUESTS

We received gifts from 18 people who had included the College in their wills or who had written a charitable remainder trust in our behalf. We are grateful to these people and encourage alumni and friends to consider some type of deferred giving for the benefit of the College. There are many ways to make a deferred gift; inquiries are welcomed.

MEMORIALS AND TRIBUTES

Forty-four individuals were honored by their families or friends with a gift in memory or tribute during 1981-82. Lebanon Valley is especially pleased to recognize these meaningful gifts.

MATCHING GIFTS

Another area of giving is the corporate matching gift. Our alumni and friends are becoming increasingly aware of matching gift opportunities and of the constantly expanding list of corporations that participate in this program. During the past fiscal year the College received 122 gifts totaling $50,159. For information regarding matching gift companies, call or write the Development Office.

GIFTS-IN-KIND

The College has received gifts-in-kind—rare books and works of art—and welcomes your valuable collections and other items of worth.

CHURCH

Support from the Eastern and Central Pennsylvania Conferences of the United Methodist Church, including contributions to the Church Scholarship Program, totaled $57,730. While this area of financial support continues to decrease, the College values this active interest. It is our pleasure to recognize those individual churches that have made gifts during the past year.

classnotes

NOTES ABOUT CLASSNOTES: Because of space limitations as well as their inclusion in the Senior Alumni Newsletter, classnotes for classes over 50 years are not normally included in this section of the Journal. We reserve the right to edit material submitted to classnotes. Also, in the Marriages and Births sections when two alum's are involved, the woman's class year is used with marriages (the husband's class year is listed behind his name), while the husband's year is used with births (noting the woman's maiden name and class year in parenthesis). With Deaths, we attempt to include as much information about an alumnus as possible, however, in some cases our alumni files are incomplete and the date of death is the only information that we have. When an alumnus is mentioned in the Journal, the first listing is always capitalized.

35 BRUCE METZGER, professor of New Testament at Princeton Theological Seminary, spent five weeks on a lecture tour at colleges and universities in Australia and New Zealand.
